

Warak Ngendog

Warak Ngendog is a mythical creature that serves as the icon of Semarang. It symbolizes harmony and unity among the city's diverse ethnic groups:

Javanese, Chinese, and Arab

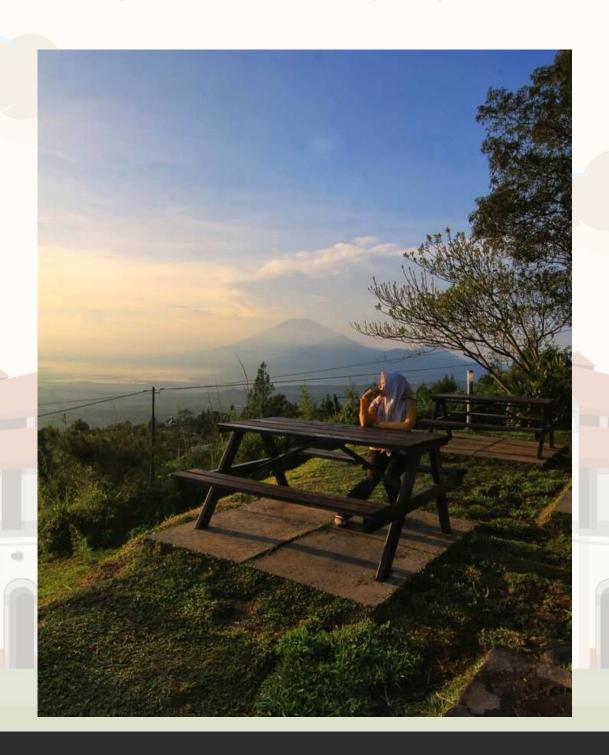

Sam Poo Kong

According to the story, Admiral Cheng Ho was sailing through the Java Sea when many of his crew fell ill. He then ordered the anchor to be dropped. His ship docked at the northern coast of Semarang, where they took shelter in a cave and built a mosque by the shore, which has now been converted into a temple

Umbul Sidomukti

Umbul Sidomukti is a tourist destination located at the foot of Mount Ungaran. It offers stunning natural scenery and cool mountain air. This Semarang attraction features various facilities, including swimming pools, cafés, and exciting outbound activities. Umbul Sidomukti also provides villas and resorts for overnight stays

Brown Ganyon

This area was originally a barren former sand mining site. However, it now exudes a stunning charm, resembling a Hollywood movie set. As a result, many photography enthusiasts come here to capture photos for social media.

Rota Lama

Semarang's Old Town area is a silent witness to over two centuries of Indonesian colonial history. It is located next to the economic district and Tawang Station

Dusun Semilir

Various rides, Instagrammable photo spots, culinary places, shopping areas, and accommodations all in one location.

Lawang Sewu

The name Lawang Sewu is actually a nickname in Javanese, meaning 'a building with a thousand doors.' The design features many rooms and around 1,000 tall, wide windows that are often mistaken for doors. In reality, the building has only 429 actual doors
